

THE WHITE HOUSE
WASHINGTON

August 9, 2016

As you gather for your 70th family reunion, it is my pleasure to send my warm regards.

Supporting us through moments of trial and triumph alike, the bonds of family are essential pieces of our personal narratives and our national identity. Giving us strength and confidence in what we can achieve with faith in one another, the familial connections we forge reflect our commitment to those we hold most dear.

This occasion is an opportunity to look back on your family's story and look forward to your next great chapters together. Michelle and I wish you the best for a wonderful reunion and for continued joy in the coming years.

A handwritten signature in black ink, which appears to be "Barack Obama", is written across the middle of the page. The signature is stylized, with a large "B" and "O" and a long horizontal line extending to the right.
